

POLITICS IN NEW MEXICO MIXED; MAY THINGS MAY ALTER OUTLOOK

A Little Twist Here or Another There May Upset All Present Calculations, but McDonald Looks Like the Democratic Candidate for Governor and Jones for Senator; Reynolds May Run for Senator.

GETTIE SMITH.

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., May 6.—The Democratic task of selecting a nominee appears simple by comparison with the herculean work that already is mapped out for the Republican party. Just as it was said of the Republican outlook, it must be set down that this view is based upon surface indications. Outwardly undisturbed, there may be inward turmoil. All that glitters is not gold. This old adage is especially applicable to matters political. Almost overnight the situation may change completely. The men who direct political campaigns make plans and dispose of their forces much the same as the train dispatcher puts out his orders and handles trains on a busy division, where traffic is heavy. The disabling of an engine or the failure of one of the trains to make the required time means the quick changing of the entire layout. The withdrawal of an avowed candidate, with his following, or the advent of an unexpected or undesired candidate, with his following, might easily upset plans and throw the campaign into disorder.

State Conventions. The state convention will select delegates to the national convention, to be held in Albuquerque on May 24, about a month later than the Republican convention. The state central committee will hold a session in the morning of that day, prior to the opening of the convention, to prepare the temporary roll of the convention, pass on any contests that may be filed and fix the time for holding the convention which will be the direction of the state. The convention will be composed of 251 delegates. It is not expected that the state convention will throw much light on the personnel of the Democratic ticket.

Possibly the work of the committee on resolutions may serve as a straw to indicate the direction of the state. There is little or no likelihood that any substantial opposition to President Wilson will develop in the ranks of New Mexico Democrats. There is some individual opposition, but those in charge of the machinery of the convention will see to it that the opposition is not aired very extensively. In the southern part of the state, especially along the border, the administration's Mexico policies have been popular. General Belief. The general belief is that the senatorial nomination will go to A. A. Jones, if he desires it. As first assistant secretary of the interior, he holds a position of much power, and one in which he has rendered the most beneficial service to the people of the southwest. Indeed, he has made a fine record as a hardworking, efficient officer, and his efforts have been on behalf of all of the United States, but the west and the southwest particularly have benefited by his administrative work. Standing high in the regard of the administration, he will have no fear as to the tenure of his office until there is a change in presidents. It is said that he reluctantly considers the senatorial candidacy which, at best, is filled with some uncertainty. If he is nominated, he will be a tower of strength to the ticket, and will be exceedingly hard on the Republicans to defeat.

FRUIT LOSSES REPORTED HEAVY

Frost Damage in Gilbert & Walker Orchards Is Placed at $10,000.

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., May 6.—Late advices from the fruit growing section of Mountain Park, 16 miles east of Alamogordo, state that the loss in fruit from the recent cold snap will amount to a good many thousands of dollars. Dr. J. R. Gilbert estimates the loss on the Gilbert & Walker orchards at $10,000. The Gilbert & Walker orchards are the largest of any in the Sacramento mountains, but the loss of other orchard owners will be quite heavy.

Previous to the cold spell it was estimated that one of the largest crops of apples would be grown in the Mountain Park district since that section of the country had been known as a producer of fruit. At this time it is thought that outside of a few cherries there will be hardly any fruit produced from that place. The temperature fell as low as 25 above zero, and heavy frost fell over all the western slopes of the Sacramento mountains.

Fruit was damaged at La Luz, six miles above Alamogordo, but the damage was not heavy. The orchards in the immediate vicinity of Alamogordo were not damaged by the cold spell because there was no frost, although it was feared at first that the orchards hereabout would suffer.

Miller's Will Filed for Probate. At regular session of the probate court for Otero county, with Judge C. H. Aguilar presiding, the will of Charles DeWitt Miller, who was killed in the raid at Columbus, was filed, and July 3, 1916, was the date set for the probating of the will. Leo Hiesel, of Tularosa, was appointed guardian ad litem of the minor heirs.

The final report of the administrators for the Perry Altman estate was filed and the administrators, Oliver M. Lee and J. H. Jeffers, were discharged. Mrs. Emma R. Altman, widow of the late Perry Altman, was appointed guardian of the minor heir, Verna Lee Altman. The Altman estate is estimated at something over $50,000. The property is located near Orange and lies in both Texas and New Mexico.

MEXICAN BOYS FINE ATHLETES

Cinco de Mayo Celebration of Mexican Y. M. C. A. Revelation to Many.

The Mexican Y. M. C. A. "Cinco de Mayo" celebration, held at the Texas Grand theater Friday night, was a revelation as to what the Mexican branch of the "Y" has accomplished. While the program was not entirely athletic the work of the Mexican boys was the feature, especially the Greek and Egyptian dances of the latter part of the program.

The athletic stunts included tumbling by the boys' class, high diving by class leaders, jiu-jitsu wrestling, horse exercise by a class of clerks, and work on the parallel bars by the class leaders.

Prof Escobar An Athlete. Prof. J. R. Escobar, an athlete of marked ability, appeared in all the exercises and in a wrestling match with Jesus Rivera as his opponent. There was a preliminary in that two boys of the younger class participated.

The Greek dance, "Rititikon," given by the class, was a decided hit. The number consisted of dancing, athletics and jiu-jitsu wrestling, horse exercise by a class of clerks, and work on the parallel bars by the class leaders.

Patriotic Program. Part of the celebration was patriotic. Federico Cervantes delivered an address at the beginning, in which he told of the events leading up to the battle on May 5 in which the Mexicans were victorious over the French. Miss Julietta Montes, impersonating Mexican liberty, and Alberto Escalante rendered a symbolic poem. Miss Lux Monoz-Silvestre sang a Mexican song and "The Latin American Republic," a patriotic song, was sung by a class of young women, with Miss Silvestre as soloist.

Definite O. Lopez rendered several guitar solos, among them being "El Mismo," from "El Trovatore." He was enthusiastically received. A large orchestra rendered music for various numbers and played special numbers "The Barber of Seville" and the waltz "Waltzmeid."

The attendance was large, and although the program lasted until one o'clock, interest and enthusiasm was sustained to the last.

Archbishop Pizsal confirmed 219 persons closing the mission with the administration of the sacrament. At Las Vegas 700 communed, 115 taking their first communion.

YOUNG ENGLISH BEAUTY IS A WAR BAZAAR ASSET

LADY DIANA MANNERS.
LONDON, Eng., May 6.—The greatest asset of a war bazaar is the famous beauty, Lady Diana Manners, the youngest daughter of the duke and duchess of Rutland, who is now 24 years old. No stage celebrity has a greater vogue than Lady Diana. Every Tommy eagerly accepts one of her photographs to tack up on the wall of his barracks or dugout. She is as good natured as she is lovely and works conscientiously when she enters an affair. Jewelry and other articles which she sells at bazaar booths bring enormous prices.

BAILEY PUPILS DO CLEVER WORK

Exhibition of Handiwork of Children Is Given for Parents Friday.

Several hundred relatives of the pupils of the Bailey school visited the school Friday for the annual exhibition day of the school children's work. In each school room the work of the pupils was arranged about the walls, making an effective decoration, and at the same time enabling the parents to compare the work of their own children with the others of their classes. Every child was represented by a booklet of written work in all the regular subjects and there also were exhibition rooms of the painting and free hand drawing work of the students.

Manual Training Work Shows. The manual training classes of the school had an interesting exhibit of articles in the school library room and upstairs the sewing classes were at work in the sewing room in the tower, where there was, in addition, an exhibition of the completed garments, showing neatness of construction that was most commendable. The children are taught sewing on practical garments that they may themselves use.

During the afternoon, examples of the play ground work were given. The pupils of the seventh grade danced a May pole dance about a prettily decorated small May pole. The pupils of the first, second and fifth grades danced folk dances.

Indoors the girls of the third grade gave folk dances and singing games and boys of the various grades gave exhibition drills in callisthenics and wrestling and other physical training work.

Kindergarten Display Creditable. The kindergarten children's display was especially noteworthy. Each year the children study in the kindergarten some special feature of their own city, about which their play and games and work are built and at the end of school all members of the class unite in building some expression of this study. This year the pupils have built a miniature union station, with its train yards, all constructed of building blocks. In the train yards are an outgoing passenger train, and sidetracked is a cattle train waiting its load. In another corner of the room was a fenced in bird yard, with the elevated bird house and feeding box on poles.

The children of the high second and low third grades had an interesting little doll house that they had constructed. The furniture in this was especially clever. It is all made of cardboard, and includes a little glass stove, baby highchair, tables and various other articles of furniture. The children had woven little runs of yarn for the floors of the playhouse and the walls were nicely papered. In the domestic science kitchen down stairs, the girls of the cooking classes served the visitors with tea and wafers.

Work Tables for High School. The boys of the high school manual training classes are completing the mechanical drawing work tables for the equipment of the new high school and these, which are of a very good grade of workmanship, were on exhibition in the down stairs manual training shop rooms.

SUES RAILROAD; "NOT PARALYZED"

Exhibition of Handiwork of Children Is Given for Parents Friday.

Sues Railroad for $40,000; to Court in Wheeled Chair; California Suit.

Three El Paso doctors, appointed by Judge Ballard Caldwell as a commission of physicians to examine the plaintiff, testified on the stand Friday afternoon that in their opinion John A. Wiley alias T. M. Wiley, who is asking $40,000 damages of the Southern Pacific for personal injuries, is not paralyzed. A fourth doctor, who says he has been in El Paso six weeks and claims to have examined Wiley on two different occasions, expressed his conviction that the man is permanently injured.

California Suit. The suit is one of many brought from California for trial in El Paso. Wiley alleges that he fell from a box car and was injured in the spine, causing a pressure that produced paralysis of the lower part of his limbs.

W. J. Gilbert of Los Angeles, and Mary Kemp, attorneys for the Southern Pacific, asked Wiley if he would submit to an examination by a commission of doctors appointed by the court. He stated that he would if his attorney agreed. P. E. Gardner, his counsel said he would agree if the examination were made in the presence of the jury. This was agreeable and Friday afternoon, in the 65th district court room Dr. J. W. Tappan, Dr. Paul Gallagher, and Dr. Geo. Brunner made the examination. Immediately afterwards they were put on the stand and all expressed their opinion that no paralysis exists.

In Wheel Chair. Immediately afterwards Dr. C. P. Austin went on the stand for the plaintiff and testified to having made two examinations. The substance of his testimony was that Wiley is paralyzed. He admitted in the cross examination to having been employed by Wiley's attorney to make the examinations, and to having been referred to the attorney by a Los Angeles doctor whom he had formerly known in Little Rock. Wiley is being brought to and from the courtroom in a wheel chair, and occupies the chair during the sessions.

Daniel W. Roan, newly elected mayor of Milwaukee, was compelled to work his way through college.
